The red 2019 Terrenus Reserva Vinhas Velhas Tinto is very spicy, toasty and smoky. It was produced with the field blend from very old plots, approximately equal parts of Aragonez (Tempranillo), Trincadeira Preta, Alicante Bouschet and others, fermented with indigenous yeasts in lagar and matured in French oak barrels for two years. Creamy, spicy and earthy, with an old-style twist, it is full-bodied and ripe at 14.7% alcohol, tannic and structured but polished by time, as the bottles are kept for two years before they are sold. 5,000 bottles produced. It was bottled in January 2023.
