Their eponymous red 2023 Curii, a classical wine with longer élevage, has a slightly creamy patina and some sweet spices in the finish. It's mostly Giró with some Merseguera and Garnacha Tintorera interplanted with it, from three plots in the same paraje, or lieu-dit. It was a warm and dry year, and the wine hits the scale at 15.06% alcohol, keeping a pH of 3.51 and 5.32 grams of acidity, but the wine doesn't show warmth or excess ripeness and comes through as Mediterranean, ripe but balanced. It has a medium-bodied palate with fine tannins. It fermented with 50% full clusters in small bins and matured in used 225- and 500-liter barrels for 24 months by plot. 1,951 bottles produced. It was bottled in October 2025.
